The KfW Banking Group places great value on quality. When we designed the foyer of the headquarters in Frankfurt, it called for particular care and attention to detail.

The result is an impressive interaction of design and technology. So much so, that you only realise it's a movable wall, when you move it!

Experience modern design and easy functionality – every day.

Our movable wall systems are more than just simply room partitions. They blend into your overall design concept, they add a certain flair to your building and give you the added freedom of flexibility and functionality.

No room is too large, no ceiling too high, no measurements too challenging, no matter what your individual needs, our innovations bring your wishes alive. We innovate to let you impress.

The transparent panels of the Premium Glass provide an atmosphere of openness while still shutting out the hustle and bustle of outside.

Mobility, transparency and discretion

If you don't need it, our Premium Glass movable wall withdraws discreetly. But as part of the overall design, it underlines the elegance of your rooms, which even those outside can see, if you give them a look in.

Looking out becomes a bore. Keep the undivided attention of your guests, at the touch of a button, and our Premium Glass will leave the world outside – simply outside.

A presentation on the agenda. Then just press a button on your remote and let the inner blind down – an added advantage with our latest innovation.

That little extra, which made the insurance company Barmenia's decision all that much easier.

As a host you need to know you can always rely on the tools of the trade. At Nüsing, we endeavoured to develop a tool, unique in design, flexible in use and as user friendly as could be. Thus, giving you the peace of mind to get on with the job at hand – hosting.

Three out of one: the state-of-the-art "multi-tasking" conference room at the Microsoft office in Cologne, thanks to Nüsing Premium.

There are a lot of space-saving stacking possibilities for movable walls. But isn't it even better when you don't have to hide them at all.

Now that's what we call a solution, elaborate technology perfectly coupled with modern design.

Don't give anything away, least of all – space.

We, at Nüsing, understand that a multi-purpose room is of great value to any building. To talk about something small, to vote on something big, to present something new or to create something brand new, whatever you need from a room, the right atmosphere is key to success.

It's our business to create movable walls, which seem to just melt into the background but nevertheless still impress. That's the Nüsing expertise and the secret to our success.

Is a movable wall really a wall? A Nüsing's one, certainly is as "safe as houses", thanks to our tried and tested pressure seals. They provide a maximum of stability and an optimal sound insulation.

Packing a Nüsing wall away is child's play. A feat which our R&D can be particularly proud of. What's more, once away, you don't see any floor tracks or unsightly fixings. All in all, a Nüsing wall gives even more to your building.

When the energy company EnBW considers investments, it strives to follow the credo: "Make the most of what you've got".

So imagine, if you will, the enthusiastic applause on seeing their administration building in Berlin for the first time.

Create the space of your dreams.

Even if your wishes seem to need more room than is available to you, trust in our versatile movable wall system to achieve what you thought impossible and make your dreams come true.

And the Nüsing quality in sound insulation has indeed allowed EnBW to now make the most of what it's got.

Walls can have a limiting effect. That's why we customise the layout of our panels to best suit your space. Our designers' aim is to create for you, your employees and your guests the most pleasurable atmosphere possible. Allowing you to simply enjoy being there.

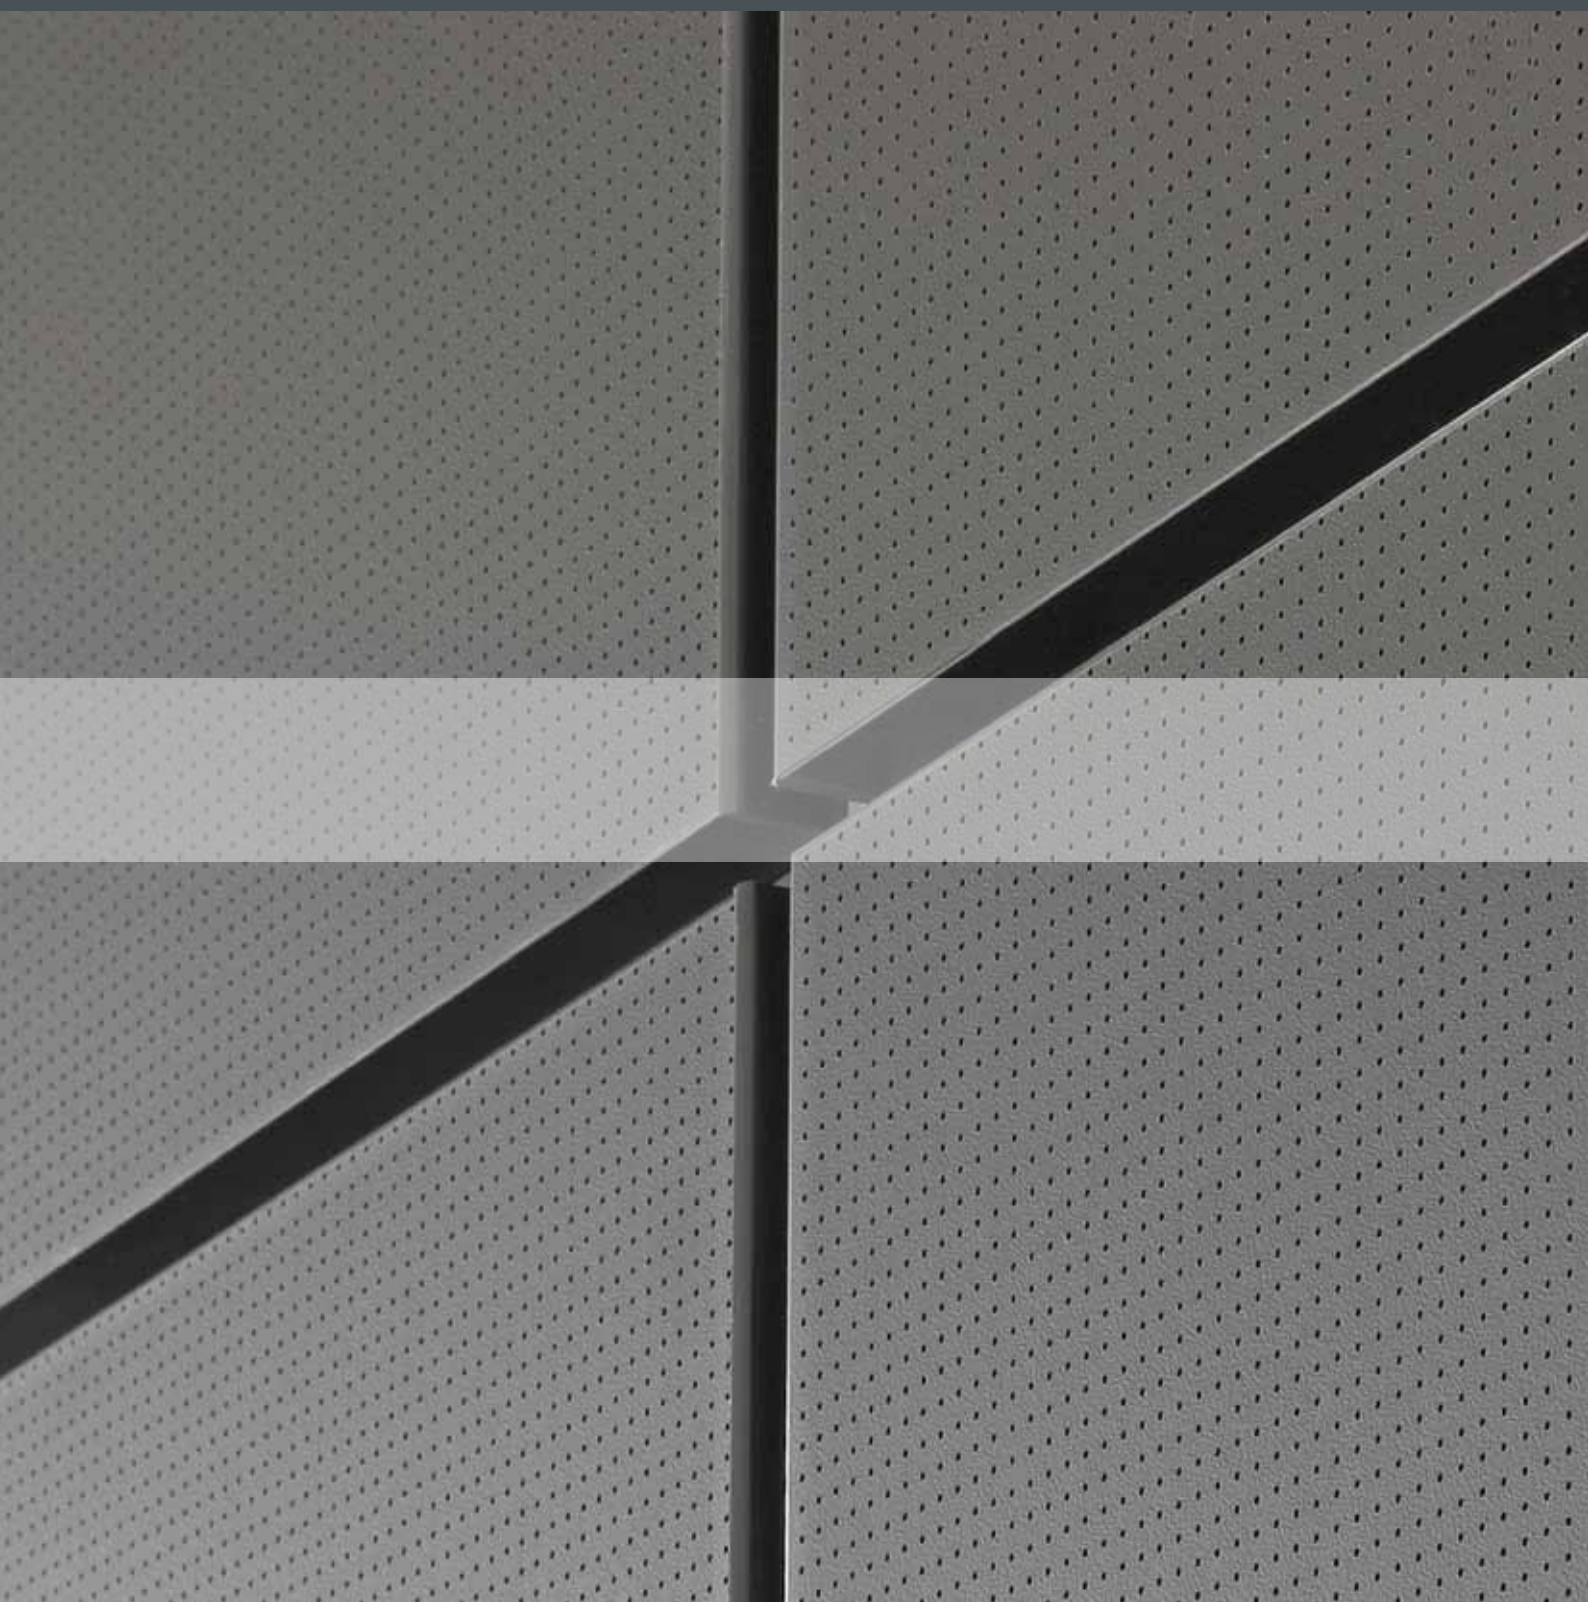

Is their design equally as important as their functionality? If so, our products are made for you – like the cultural centre in Ugingen. The Nüsing Premium 100 at its best – impressing visitors and passers-by alike.

Trust your feelings.

Interior design means the synthesis of planning and design of interior spaces, which aims to make the people in the room feel as comfortable as possible.

Even though we aren't interior designers, we share that one goal – your well-being. We believe that it is our products, as part of your overall concept, which should add that something extra to your well-being. Something you can feel.

Close up, you can just make out the micro perforations on the surface of our acoustic panels.

The effect of which though, you can hear in the whole room.

The right decision sounds better.

An important aspect when fitting movable walls is acoustics, especially in halls, classrooms and concert halls. With our system you have the freedom to call the tune. Do you only require sound insulation or do you want the panels, working in concert, to create the right sound.

Indeed the micro perforations on our acoustic panels prevent unwanted echo effects, thus providing sound of the highest quality.

Even traditional companies such as Thyssen-Krupp also sometimes long for a little bit of freedom.

A wish which we at Nüsing appreciate, and thanks to the versatility of our movable wall systems, we do our utmost to fulfil.

How much freedom can you actually take?

A justifiable question, when you take a look at the seemingly limitless possibilities our Premium range can offer you. Freedom can be confusing! That's why we invest so much time in listening to you and advising you. We design to cater exactly to your needs and wishes, to produce a result which will live up to your highest expectations. With Nüsing at your side, freedom knows no bounds.
